Workshop, training

Project objectives

The workshop facilitated exchange of information between relevant stakeholders, in particular unveiled roles of each stakeholder in the process of identification, preparation and implementation of EE Projects.

Project description

In frames of GIZ (German International Cooperation) project “Energy Efficiency in industry,” iC consulenten delivered the one-day training workshop on the topic «Preparation of energy efficient projects for financing».

Project data

The seminar was attended by more than 20 participants, among them owners of companies, heads of financial and technical departments, representatives of state and municipal authorities.

The workshop consisted of the technical and financial modules, each of which had its own theoretical and practical part.

Project specifics

The workshop contains a blend of both theory and practice.

Theory is conveyed through discussions and reflection on the different topics as well as through the presentation of tools, methods and models and their practical application explored using “Best Practice Cases”.

Practical tasks on two real business cases give participants the opportunity to experience and develop understanding in accordance with their needs, as well as to explore the complete process of preparing the energy efficiency and renewable energy project for financing application.
